And Then All Hell Broke Loose: Two Decades in the Middle East

by Engel, Richard

956.05 ENG

After living in the Middle East for 20+ years, NBC's chief foreign correspondent wrote his account of the Middle East revolutions, the Arab Spring, war, and terrorism. After reading this, I was saddened as I read his thought that "after months of traveling and reporting I came to believe that Washington was trying to put out the fires of terrorism with gasoline."

Assembling California

by McPhee, John

Drawing on his travels along the fault lines of the earth's shifting plates, the author discusses how a half dozen large pieces of country have drifted from far and near to coalesce as California.

The Big Year: A Tale of Man, Nature, and Fowl Obsession

Three competitors are tracked through their "Big Year," one of the biggest events in birding in which the contestant who spots the most species of birds in one year is the winner.

The Botany of Desire

by Pollan, Michael

Focusing on the human relationship with plants, the author uses botany to explore four basic human desires - sweetness, beauty, intoxication, and control - through portraits of four plants that embody them: the apple, tulip, marijuana, and potato.

A Brief History of Time

by Hawking, S. W.

Professor Hawking shares his blazing intellect with nonscientists everywhere, guiding us expertly to confront the supreme questions of the nature of time and the universe. From Galileo and Newton to modern astrophysics, from the breathtakingly vast to the extraordinarily tiny, Professor Hawking leads us on an exhilarating journey to distant galaxies, black holes, alternate dimensions--as close as man has ever ventured to the mind of God.

Cadillac Desert: The American West and its Disappearing Water

by Reisner, Marc

333.91 REI

The story of the American West is the story of a relentless quest for a precious resource: water. This is the story of the early settlers, lured by promises of paradise. The author documents the rivalry between government giants and other institutions, in the competition to transform the West, and projects on the future problems of limited groundwater reserves, silting up of reservoirs, and contamination of soil.

In Cold Blood: A True Account of a Multiple Murder and Its Consequences

by Capote, Truman

Dramatically reconstructs the investigation and trial that followed the meaningless murder of a Kansas farm family by two ex-convict drifters.

Evicted: Poverty and Profit in the American City

by Desmond, Matthew

339.4 DES

In this brilliant, heartbreaking book, Matthew Desmond takes us into the poorest neighborhoods of Milwaukee to tell the story of eight families on the edge. Arleen is a single mother trying to raise her two sons on the $20 a month she has left after paying for their rundown apartment. Scott is a gentle nurse consumed by a heroin addiction. Lamar, a man with no legs and a neighborhood full of boys to look after, tries to work his way out of debt. Vanetta participates in a botched stickup after her hours are cut. All are spending almost everything they have on rent, and all have fallen behind.

Freakonomics: A Rogue Economist Explores the Hidden Side of Everything

by Dubner, Stephen J. and Levitt, Steven D.

An economist and a journalist begin with a mountain of data and a simple question. Some of these questions concern life-and-death issues; others are rather freakish. These questions have the capability of redefining the way we view the modern world.

Isaac's Storm: A Man, a Time, and the Deadliest Hurricane in History

by Cline, Isaac Monroe and Larson, Erik

Based on the diaries of scientist Isaac Monroe Cline and on contemporary accounts of the 1900 hurricane that struck Galveston, Texas, this is the story of what can happen when human arrogance meets the great uncontrollable force of nature.

Kill 'Em and Leave: Searching for James Brown and the American Soul

by McBride, James

BIO BROWN

Because James Brown was rather reclusive, more myths than facts are told about him. McBride meticulously researched Brown, and presents a complete view of this many-faceted and sometimes contradictory man. He reports how the extreme inequality of black vs. white musicians in the 1950s-70s shaped Brown's career. In addition, McBride reveals his own challenges as a Northerner doing research in the South. Brown's life is unusual rags-to-riches story in which wealth doesn't equal security. Soul music fans and readers who enjoy engaging and complex biographies will enjoy this one.

Longitude: The True Story of a Lone Genius who Solved the Greatest Scientific Problem of his Time

by Sobel, Dava

The dramatic human story of an epic scientific quest and of John Harrison's 40-year obsession with building the perfect timekeeper, known today as the chronometer, the clock that enabled sailors to measure longitude, saving lives and fortunes.
